MANAGEMENT POLICY

After a market selloff in April following Donald Trump's tariff announcement, optimism over the US president's decision to implement a three month rate pause led to a significant market turnaround in May. The CAC 40 was up 2.1%, but still trails other major indices, such as the German DAX, which was up around 7%, and the EuroStoxx 50, which was up 4%. Meanwhile, the Nasdaq rose sharply by 9.6%, while the S & P 500 rose by 6.2% (in euros). Negotiations between the US and China showed progress, with cuts in reciprocal tariffs, while recession fears eased. However, the American debt issue remains a source of concern, particularly with Moody's downgrade, in the middle of a Congress debate on the budget deficit.

Meanwhile, US interest rates have continued to rise, with the 10 year rate rising to 4.60%. In the oil sector, prices fluctuated greatly last week, caught between rumours of rising production and economic uncertainties. First quarter company results were reassuring on both sides of the Atlantic. Debt and trade policy tensions remain issues to watch.

PALATINE Planète was able to take advantage of this dynamic, outperforming its benchmark index. The fund's exposure to cyclical sectors, particularly industrials, positively impacted performance. Electrification and energy management related stocks such as Prysmian, Legrand and Schneider Electric contributed positively.

On the other hand, tech stocks such as ASML, ASM International and Infineon regained some attractiveness, helped by reassuring comments on the artificial intelligence dynamic and hopes of a bottom in the consumer segment. While visibility is low, the renewable energy segment has become more optimistic, buoyed by rumours that US government stimulus will be maintained. On the other hand, Palatine Planète was affected by the flattening of Soitec's guidance which continues to face limited visibility and stocks that are still too exposed to the automotive cycle, still in a severe slowdown.
